RESOURCES FOR SUPERVISORS

Student Success St. Petersburg Resources for Supervisors of New Employees

A Note for Supervisors

The below resources for onboarding plans are just templates and resources for you to make your own. Here are some other items to keep in mind as you are planning for your new employee!

Before their first day:

- USF has several resources for onboarding including the Onboarding Guide for Managers and the Departmental New Employee Onboarding Checklist. These are great resources that will allow you to get your new hire ready and prepared for their new position!
- Be sure to clean up their work area. If anything needs special maintenance or custodial attention, here are the instructions to submit a work order.
- You can order a name badge for your new employee (if applicable) through MarkMaster using the code 553182 and business cards (again, if applicable) here.
- You can schedule a time to meet with USF St. Petersburg IT here to ensure that they can get your new employee set up with their computer first thing.
- To change the name on a campus phone, fill out this form.
- Start creating 30-60-90 day plans to set up your new employee for success (see below for additional information)!

For their first day/week:

- To get a temporary parking pass, go to the Parking and Transportation Office with a copy of the offer letter and a photo ID. Find out more information about the parking office here.
- The new employee should have received information from HR regarding setting up their net ID.
- Bayboro accounts are being phased out by USF St. Petersburg IT. New employees will use their NetID to log into USF computers. Bayboro account access requests are no longer required.
- Supervisors should send an email to stp-help@usf.edu to request for new employees to be added to the St. Petersburg listservs.
- Central HR will reach out to the new employee within their first week regarding benefits and new employee orientation, but they can also read about all of the great benefits that we offer here. The Benefits Summary document on the first page outlines a lot of the healthcare and supplemental voluntary plans available to full-time employees.
- USF also has a New Employee Onboarding webpage that includes things like employment policies and regulations, campus maps, the employee resource guide, and more!
- Discuss department/divisional expectations (dress code, leave policies, divisional committee work, etc.) and review the position description with the new employee.
- Set up meetings between your new staff member and the Vice Chancellor for Student Success, Regional Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Success and Dean of Students, and the Regional Assistant Vice Chancellor of Student Success – Enrollment & Transitions so they can get to know our leadership team!
- Send out an announcement via the Executive Administrative Specialist for the Regional Vice Chancellor of Student Success to the entire division to welcome your new employee! Please include their job title, department, start date, contact information, a headshot (if they're comfortable) and a little information about them (their background, life outside of work, or anything else they want to include).

30-60-90 Day Plans

In this packet, you will find resources to help you create a 30-60-90 day plan for your new employee. You do not need to have three learning goals and three performance goals for each phase, in fact, you'll likely have more learning goals than performance goals in the 0-30 day Learning Phase and more performance goals than learning goals in the 60-90 day Executing Phase. These are just examples and templates for you to make your own. Only you know what exactly your employee will need to succeed in their new role. In general though, each phase includes all or most of the following tasks:

0-30 Days – Learning Phase

- Learning role responsibilities
- Learning how they fit into the team as a whole
- Meeting new people and building relationships
- Completing compliance and access trainings
- Learning the tools and resources available to them
- Learning their supervisor's expectations and communication style

30-60 Days – Aligning Phase

- Learning how their responsibilities contribute to your area, Student Success, and USF as a whole
- Building relationships with campus and community partners
 - As the supervisor, create a list of employees (or teams or community partners) that this position will likely have to work with frequently and set up some informational meet and greets for your new employee! While these can be awkward, they can be made less awkward by planning them over a lunch or having some pre-planned questions ready (see Example Informational Meeting Questions for some examples). Building strong relationships early in the position will help the employee to know where their resources are, help them to fit in, and overall aid them in succeeding in their position.
 - Consider assigning a “work buddy” to your new employee! Having a work buddy can increase employee engagement among new employees and creates someone that your new employee can go to with simple questions that they may not want to inundate their supervisor with.
- Learning the area's strategic plan and how they fit into it
- Taking on some initial responsibilities and identifying any gaps in knowledge

60-90 Days – Executing Phase

- Beginning to work independently and contributing to the team
- Start discussing their performance with them – setting expectations for future work
- Begin to work towards Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) and future goals

Please feel free to reach out to your Unit HR staff if you'd like some help in creating a 30-60-90 day onboarding plan for your new employee.

Performance Evaluations

As ongoing feedback, you will complete formal annual performance evaluations with your employees. However, informal feedback should be ongoing throughout the year to address triumphs and potential issues as they happen. The website also includes optional quarterly performance evaluation forms if you would like to include that as part of your feedback process.

Types of Employment

Administration Appointments

Administration appointments are the most common type of full-time employment with Student Success. Common Student Success administration classifications include: student programs coordinator, assistant director, associate director, and director. If you are unsure of your appointment type or classification, please contact your unit HR staff as part of Resource Management. This type of employee typically does not need to submit a timesheet, is not eligible for overtime, is not covered by any Collective Bargaining Agreement (and, as such, is considered out-of-unit), and does not have a probationary period. They typically earn more vacation (aka annual) leave, but are not eligible for personal days. Please see the Employee Leave Guide for more information. This type of employee is typically eligible for the Employee Tuition Program as soon as day one of employment if desired.

Faculty Appointments

Student Success does not have many faculty appointments. Common Student Success faculty classifications include: psychologist. If you are unsure of your appointment type or classification, please contact your unit HR staff as part of Resource Management. Faculty appointments are a part of the United Faculty of Florida Collective Bargaining Agreements (and, as such, are considered in-unit). For more information on the Collective Bargaining Agreements, click here.

Staff Appointments

Common Student Success staff classifications include: administrative specialist, office manager, and student services program specialist. All staff with Student Success are full-time. If you are unsure of your appointment type or classification, please contact your unit HR staff as part of Resource Management. This type of employment typically needs to submit a timesheet each biweekly pay period, is eligible for overtime, has a designated 6 month (minimum) probationary period, and is covered by the AFSCME Collective Bargaining Agreement (and, as such, are considered in-unit). For more information on the Collective Bargaining Agreements, click here. Staff earn vacation (aka annual) leave in proportion to their years of service with USF and are eligible for personal days after a successful completion of their probationary period. Please see the Employee Leave Guide for more information. This type of employee is typically eligible for the Employee Tuition Program as soon as their probationary period has completed if desired.

Temporary Appointments

Temporary employment can include student and non-student employees. Student temporary employees are the most common type of employment in Student Success. Typically, temporary appointments with Student Success are part-time, hourly, required to submit a timesheet each biweekly pay period, are eligible for overtime (although student employees should never be working more than 29 hours per week), are not eligible for PTO or benefits (although can become benefits eligible if they frequently work more than 29 hours per week), and are required to have an end date for their employment.

Graduate Assistants (GAs) are a specific type of temporary appointment that is specific to graduate students who have a tuition waiver from their academic program. GAs are in-unit with the Graduate Assistants United Collective Bargaining Agreement and, as such, have access to certain benefits that other temporary appointments do not such as limited PTO and healthcare options. For more information on the Collective Bargaining Agreements, click here.

Non-student temporary appointments are not common in Student Success, but can occur. Non-student temporary employees have to follow the same processes as any other temporary appointments including completing a biweekly timesheet, but are considered out-of-unit. Non-student temporary appointments include:

1. Recent graduates of USF (undergraduate or graduate)
2. Students who have not yet started at USF, but are anticipated to start at a later date (undergraduate or graduate)
3. Students taking an undetermined break from college (undergraduate and graduate)
4. Graduate or undergraduate students enrolled at any institution other than USF doing a paid internship with USF
5. Any other temporary new hire that does not meet the requirement for student employment.

Please contact your unit HR representative as part of Resource Management (stp-ssrm@usf.edu) for more information about non-student temporary appointments. These appointments typically have several more requirements than temporary student appointments and may require additional time to hire.
